Eisenhower is Agreeable to Big Four Meeting

Gives Dulles Full Powers to Arrange Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said in a public speech today that he is willing to meet with Russian leaders for Big Four talks if such a meeting holds "the slightest chance" of furthering world peace.

He made the statement in a speech before the women's division of the Republican National Committee a short time after the White House announced that he had given Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "full power" to arrange for a Big Four meeting of chiefs of state.

In Paris, where Dulles has been conferring with the British and French foreign ministers, diplomatic informants said Western Big Three notes already had been dispatched to Moscow inviting Russia to participate in the long-discussed meeting "at the summit."

The formal statement issued by the White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower was agreeable to such a meeting "if it seems feasible and useful" that it be held.

Mr. Eisenhower's personal remarks about the prospective meeting were made, impromptu, toward the end of an address to the GOP women that was principally concerned with emphasizing the need for "a solidarity of partnership" in the 1956 political campaign.

Earlier Hagerty talked to newsmen about the proposed international meeting.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, now meeting in Paris with the British and French foreign ministers, has "full power" to arrange a so-called meeting at the "summit" with Russia.

"The President has always stated that such a meeting was a possibility," Hagerty said.

"Of course, the secretary of state is fully familiar with the President's views and if it seems feasible and useful that such a meeting be held, the secretary has full power to arrange for that on behalf of the President."

The announcement came after

West Calls for Big Four Meeting

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower was disclosed as agreeable to a "feasible and useful" Big Four meeting with the premiers of Britain, France and Russia today.

Within a few hours, the Western Big Three delivered identical notes to Moscow calling for a general four power conference of the heads of state.

Diplomatic informants here and in London said the identical notes called for a meeting "at the summit."

London sources said the time and place of the Big Four meeting will be worked out when the Big Three foreign ministers meet Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in Vienna to sign an Austrian state treaty during the weekend.

The Western embassies in Moscow revealed neither the text nor any inkling of the details of the notes.

However, it was considered unlikely that there would be any Soviet reply for at least a week or 10 days.

The A-Bomb Effects Didn't Reach Here; It's the Razing Job at Muddy Plant

THE AMERICAN WRECKING CO. of Omaha, Des Moines and Kansas City is wrecking the old CIPS power plant at Muddy, which became obsolete, and things have been a-flying out that way. The photo above shows a section of the high steel structure which supported the overhead crane going down during the wrecking operations. Welders cut loose part of the legs and a truck with a winch pulled over the enormous structure by sections, using a steel cable. In the background is the overhead crane itself, which came down later.

THE OVERHEAD CRANE ITSELF, a gigantic network of steel which ran on railroad wheels, with a cab for the operator at the far right, went down yesterday afternoon. It was a beautiful job of wrecking as the crane fell just where workmen had planned without doing any damage — except that parts of the crane were a jumbled mass of steel.

Actress Joan Crawford and Executive Elope

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Ten years of life as a single woman ended today for actress Joan Crawford when she married executive Alfred N. Steele in a ceremony that turned out to be an elopement.

Miss Crawford, 47, and Steele, president of Pepsi Cola Co., were married in a quiet civil ceremony after a short courtship. The actress' marriage to Phillip Terry, her third, ended in 1945.

Steele, 54, divorced his second wife, Lillian Nelson, this March in Acapulco, Mex. He has escorted Miss Crawford for three years and their marriage came as no surprise to friends in Hollywood.

The couple was dining at Romanoff's restaurant in Hollywood Monday night when Miss Crawford remarked she never had flown before. Steele at once offered to take her up in his private plane, friends said.

Steele, of New York, hired an American Air Lines pilot and the whole party flew here. En route, the couple decided to make the trip their elopement. A few hours after they arrived, they were married by Municipal Judge John Mendoza in the penthouse of the Flamingo hotel.

The actress has adopted four children. Before her marriage to Terry, she was married to actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Franchot Tone.

Warren Will Not Build Plant At Eldorado

Awaits Expansion Of Oil Field In Saline County

The Warren Petroleum Co. apparently is not going to locate a $3,000,000 gasoline plant in the Eldorado area.

J. Cecil Sullivan, a member of the John Stelle Associates, independent oil operators of Saline county, said today that W. K. Warren, president of the Tulsa, Okla., company, declared that constructing a plant at Eldorado was not in his present plans.

Mr. Warren told a group of the Associates at the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Ky., Saturday of the decision.

Main reason, he told the group, that until the Eldorado oil field spreads out or until he has a little more knowledge of the Saline county area, he is not ready to invest three million dollars for a plant.

It didn't mean, Warren told the group at the Derby, that he would not erect some type of compression plant in the Eldorado area.

Plans were for Warren to erect a three-million dollar plant to make gasoline, propane and butane from natural gases in the field.

Mr. Warren and a group of his high officials were in Eldorado several weeks ago and conferred with John Stelle, chairman of a negotiating committee, and all the other independent producers in the Eldorado field. Both Warren and the producers had hired engineers to look into the gas potential for a Warren plant and according to reports, the studies proved favorable.

Area May Expand
At that time Warren wanted 90 days to determine whether or not to sign a 10-year contract with the Eldorado field operators to buy their gas, which is now going to waste.

The plant, if it had been constructed, would have employed about 40 men.

It was learned, however, that a group of men from Oklahoma were in Eldorado today conferring with Stelle, a former governor of Illinois and a former national commander of the American Legion. They are looking into the possibilities of erecting a plant similar to the one that Warren was interested in constructing.

Some oil observers believe if the field expands into the area north of Harrisburg — and there is a strong probability that it will — that more oil industry and possibly Warren will still come into the area if it expands.

There is one producing well in the North Harrisburg field at present — the May Community unit No. 1, 400 feet south and 300 feet west of the NE corner of the SE quarter of the NE quarter of Section 34-8-66 (Raleigh township), and reports today were that 17 feet of saturation had been found in the Waltersburg at Donald L. Foote's Bertino No. 1, also in Section 34 on the Lloyd H. Melton farm, in which Melton and Mrs. Bertino each hold a half interest in the royalty.

Youth Caught in Church Robbery Attempts Suicide

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An 18-year-old California boy caught trying to steal a church collection Sunday night at the city prison.

Albert Schneider of Davis, Calif., was found unconscious and taken to St. John's Hospital after he tied a handkerchief around his neck and tried to strangle himself.

Schneider admitted trying to steal the collection at St. Barbara's Catholic Church after the Rev. Frank Dirksen caught him rifling the priest's desk. He had cut a window screen to get inside the rectory.

Schneider also told police he burglarized another Catholic church three times since arriving in Springfield. Authorities said he was under guard at the hospital pending a mental examination.

Howell Admits Wrong in Soliciting Business Firms For Turnpike Association

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois Toll Roads Chairman Evan Howell Monday told House investigators he was wrong in asking business firms to join a turnpike organization he had founded.

Howell said he never realized "such charges" would be made against sale of membership in the National Turnpike Assn. to firms interested in getting toll road business.

As chairman of the Illinois Toll Roads Commission, Howell was in a key position to determine who got the state's toll road business.

The turnpike association was incorporated Feb. 10, 1954, as a non-profit body. State toll road authorities could join for $50 a year, but the association solicited memberships from bonding houses, engineering firms and contractors at $1,000 each with $250 a year dues.

Meet Again Next Week
Rep. Arthur W. Sprague (R-La Grange) asked Howell if it "was perfectly all right to solicit" memberships from private firms at high rates.

Both Bulganin, Molotov Attend Warsaw Meeting

MOSCOW (AP)—Officials of the East European Communist nations led by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin converged on Warsaw today to set up their own "Eastern NATO" to counter the rearmament of West Germany.

Disclosure that Bulganin as well as Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov were attending the Warsaw conference was a clear sign of the major importance the Soviet government has attached to the meeting.

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov spent last weekend in East Berlin for celebrations of the end of World War II and was expected to be in Warsaw for the conference opening Wednesday to set up a mutual aid treaty and a unified military command.

North Atlantic alliance planners in Paris said between 80 and 90 satellite divisions will be fully integrated into Russia's war machine when the "Eastern NATO" comes into being Wednesday. They said the Soviet concept of a "unified command" will permit the Kremlin to control all the armed forces in name as well as in fact.

Premiers, foreign ministers and defense ministers of the other seven East European Communist nations also were attending. Communist China announced it was sending an observer.

Preparations for Wednesday's conference was set at a similar meeting in Moscow last Nov. 29, Dec. 2.

It appeared the Warsaw conference will be short since Molotov is expected to be in Vienna this weekend to sign the Austrian state treaty. However, Bulganin, making his first trip outside the Soviet Union since he became premier early this year, would be the top Soviet official in Warsaw anyway.

the time," Howell said. "In view of what charges were made I've changed my mind."

Howell was the only witness before the nine-member House committee investigating the 1953 Toll Road Act and the program carried out by the turnpike authority it created.

After sessions Monday afternoon and night, the investigators set their next meeting at 3 p. m. next Monday. They asked Howell, Toll Road Commissioners Orville Taylor and William Wood Prince, and the commission's "full staff" to be present again.

Howell opened the investigation by delivering an hour-long review of the Toll Road Commission's actions since its appointment in the fall of 1953.

He said after an eastern trip to confer with turnpike groups and public works authorities in other states, the commission hired Joseph K. Knoerle & Associates, Baltimore, Md., for a "preliminary" study to determine if toll roads were feasible in Illinois.

Knoerle was hired for $32,000 cash with an additional fee "contingent" on the actual building of toll roads, he said. Firms for later studies and work were also paid certain immediate fees with amounts to be added "contingent" on program completion.

Study Bond Purchase
Howell said a "syndicate" of 566 bonding houses was now studying the purchase of bonds which would finance the first stage of toll road construction in Illinois, consisting of three routes in the Chicago area.

The investigators were critical of the hiring of all firms under the "contingent" clause.

Sprague said the 1953 General Assembly appropriated $436,000 to the commission to study the feasibility of the toll road program.

"Don't you think that should have been sufficient for an impartial survey to find out if toll roads were feasible?" Sprague asked.

"I doubt if we could have got that sort of study without some sort of commitment," Howell said after some questioning. "But perhaps that's not the practice."

"Take it or leave it, I know what the practice is and didn't find out," Sprague said.

Howell said he leaned on "expert

House Votes $35,000 for Economy Study

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois House today voted to appropriate $35,000 for an Illinois economic development commission to study ways and means of improving economic conditions in areas of unemployment.

The nine member commission, composed of three members of each house of the Legislature and three members named by the governor, would make a two-year study with particular emphasis on southern Illinois.

The bill passed by 120-4. Rep. Clyde L. Choate (D-Anna), chief sponsor of the measure, said it is to "study ways and means of bringing new industry into areas of Illinois which are economically depressed."

He said the unemployment in southern Illinois, grave because of the closing of coal mines, has grown worse since completion last year of the electrical energy plant at Joppa.

Rep. Louis E. Beckman (R-Kankakee) noted Gov. William G. Stratton had vetoed the bill in 1953, a veto Choate had charged was a breach of a campaign promise. Beckman said he didn't believe $35,000 was necessary for such an investigation.

He said Southern Illinois University, civic and business organizations and the railroads in southern Illinois already have joined hands to raise economic standards of the area.

Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna) replied to Beckman, "I can't think of any better way to spend $35,000. Those people walking the streets in southern Illinois are not eating steaks every day but maybe you are."

Action Occurs Off Coast of Northern Korea

American Planes Are Attacked by Communist MIGs

TOKYO (AP)—American Sabrejets, outnumbered two to one, shot down two Communist MIGs and damaged a third in a blazing battle off the coast of North Korea, the Air Force announced today. No American planes were lost.

The Air Force said a flight of 12 to 16 Communist MIGs attacked a flight of eight Sabrejets "over international waters" off North Korea and that the Americans returned the fire, shooting down two and sending a third into a smoking dive toward the Yellow Sea.

The Air Force did not say whether the MIGs were from North Korea or Communist China. Both have fields in the general area.

"The U. S. Air Force fighters, all assigned to the 35th Squadron of the 8th Fighter-Bomber Wing, were on a patrol mission off North Korea when the attack occurred," the announcement said.

"After the MIGs began firing at the Sabres the American planes returned the fire. In the ensuing battle two Communist pilots bailed out and the third plane was last seen diving straight down trailing smoke."

The Air Force said the MIGs were shot down by Capt. R. V. Fulton of Bernardsville, N. J.; Lt. B. C. Phythyon of Wadsworth, Ohio, and Lt. J. E. McInerney, Garden City, N. Y.

"The Communist planes initiated the attack approximately 50 miles southwest of Sinuiju," the Air Force said.

Sinuiju is on the Yalu river in northeast Korea. The dogfight happened over the Yellow Sea which separates the Korean peninsula from the China mainland.

An Air Force spokesman said the jet fighters were not accompanying a reconnaissance bomber but "were on a patrol by themselves."

The spokesman said "this attack was a little farther south" than a similar battle last February when a flight of North Korean Communist MIGs attacked a flight of Sabres escorting a U. S. reconnaissance bomber.

The Feb. 5 incident came when eight MIGs attacked an RB45 jet bomber and 12 escorting Sabrejets. The Sabres shot down two MIGs and the remainder fled. No Sabres were lost in that incident.

Today's incident was one of a long series involving American aircraft and those of Communist China, North Korea, the Soviet Union and its satellites in East Europe. One of the more recent incidents came last December when Russian planes shot down a U. S. B29 off North Japan.

U. S. AWAITS FULL REPORT ON INCIDENT BEFORE MAKING PROTEST
WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials said today they will await a full investigation and official report by the Air Force before deciding whether the United States should lodge a formal protest with the Communists over today's Yellow Sea air battle.

Pending such a report, they said, the department does not know whether a protest would be directed to North Korea or Red China. If it were the former, the United Nations Korea Command might make the protest since the mere presence of MIGs in North Korea constitutes a violation of armistice terms.

There was no immediate disposition in diplomatic circles here to regard the incident as a fatal blow to the current Formosa cease-fire feelers. It was pointed out that air clashes such as today's are essentially a symptom rather than an underlying cause of overall Far East tension, which U. S. officials hope the cease-fire talks might help to relieve.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Youthful U. S. governors dominate Washington Conference; Governor Shivers puts best Democratic foot forward; Mamie jacks up White Housekeepers.

WASHINGTON. — With the nation's governors—Seldom have so many alert young governors gathered in Washington as during the recent gubernatorial conference. Among the most impressive youngsters were Hall of Kansas, Foss of South Dakota, Republicans; Leader of Pennsylvania, Muskie of Maine, Freeman of Minnesota, Simms of New Mexico, Faubus of Arkansas, all Democrats. ... Also oldtimer "Soapy" Williams of Michigan, still young but serving his fourth term; Meyner of New Jersey, who now acts like an old-timer; and such elder statesmen as Ed Johnson of Colorado, now in his 70's but just elected, and McFarland of Arizona, who was both senator and governor. ... Averell Harriman of New York, who looks almost as young as Leader of Pennsylvania, showed confidence and maturity, made an impression on colleagues. One year ago he was less assured. Now he stood firm on issues, talked briefly and forcefully. ... George Craig of Indiana, close friend of Eisenhower, did his best to get through the General Clay highway program, got an assist from GOP Governors Knight of California and Langlie of Washington. But Democrats Meyner (N.J.), Faubus (Ark.), Clement (Tenn.), and others talked the highway down. It didn't even come up for a vote. ... Three young governors, Clement of Tennessee, 34, Leader of Pennsylvania, 37, Freeman of Minnesota, 36, were comparing notes as to which was youngest. Their three wives happened to be present. Governor Clement started to take a poll to see which was the youngest wife, but abruptly stopped. The question still remains a mystery. ... Governor Simms (N. Mex.) was at dinner with Speaker Sam Rayburn when Rayburn paid tribute to his "graduates"—the senators who had trained under him in the House of Representatives and gone on to the U. S. Senate. Rayburn didn't know it, but young Governor Simms trained as speaker of the New Mexico House of Representatives. Politicians are talking of him for the Senate if and when elder statesman Dennis Chavez retires. ... McCarthyism backfires—Delightful Gov. Faubus was attending a party given by the Arkansas society. Reared on a chicken farm where his 67-year-old father still raises chickens, Faubus said: "When I was a kid I cut timber for the Fulbright Lumber Co., and didn't have the money to go to a university like the senior senator from Arkansas. So I had to go to Commonwealth college." ... The statement got a roar from Arkansas for two reasons: 1. Senator Fulbright, who is a distinguished Rhodes scholar and former university president, made his money through a lumber company which pays notoriously low wages; 2. Commonwealth college had the reputation of being a pro-Communist institution, and since Governor Faubus as a youngster went there for nine days, ex-Governor Cherry threw it up against him during the election campaign, when Faubus was called a Communist. ... However, the charge backfired and elected Faubus—only the second time in 118 years that a candidate has defeated an Arkansas governor for re-election. ... Actually Governor Faubus and Senator Fulbright are good friends. ... Arkansas take pride in calling themselves hillbillies, but also in the fact that they are represented in the Senate by a Rhodes scholar and former university president. ... Shivers wows Washington—Governor Shivers flew to Washington in a chartered 34-seat Braniff plane, with only his public relations man, Jimmy Banks, and the latter's two children along. In Washington, he wooed other governors, and for the most part won them. He also conferred pleasantly and profitably—from his point of view—with Democratic Chairman Paul Butler at a breakfast in the speaker's kitchen. They came out of the kitchen arm-in-arm, after which Butler issued a complimentary statement. ... Shivers, however, wasn't so cooperative when talking to Texas newsmen. Asked: "Will you be for Stevenson in '56?" Shivers replied, "No." ... "What does he have to change besides his stand on Tidelands oil before you will support him?" Shivers was asked. "His name," was the reply. ... Informed by the press of this rebellious statement, Chairman Butler replied, "he didn't tell that to me." ... Texas loyalists were disappointed at the embrace given their disloyal governor by the Democratic chairman. Most of them, however, figure that Shivers is washed up. Veterans' land scandals, insurance scandals, etc., have made it next to impossible for him to run again. ... Congressman "Tiger" Teague of Texas was nervous and fidgety when he presided over a luncheon with Sam Rayburn on his right and Governor Shivers on his left. Rayburn, unlike Lyndon Johnson, has never forgiven Shivers for his double-cross in '52. Teague knew it. He was so nervous that he didn't introduce Shivers, but invited young Congressman Joe Kilgore, from the governor's home district, to make the introduction.

HOUSEKEEPER MAMIE
Mamie Eisenhower is a very meticulous housekeeper, and at times she can be like other housewives, quite irritable about it. The White House housekeeper is a pretty well mechanized institution which carries on from administration to administration with no politics involved. The same butler who served Franklin Roosevelt and Truman carry on under Eisenhower, and the servant staff is generally about the same. On the whole they do an excellent job. But the other day Mrs. Eisenhower was coming downstairs in the private White House elevator, which is lined with plush and satin with a heavy carpet on the floor. As she stepped out of the elevator, a Secret Service man was standing outside, whose job it is to protect the White House, not keep it clean. Mamie pointed to the floor of the elevator and rather testily told him to clean it up. The Secret Service man explained that the President had been out in the rose garden, got his feet slightly muddy, and tracked it into the elevator. "I don't care what happened," snapped Mrs. Ike. "I said to clean it up." It was cleaned up.

U. S. on Road To Control by Aging Females

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your mother-in-law upsets you, you'd better learn to grin and bear it. The Population Reference Bureau said today the United States is on the road toward gerontocracy, or control by aging females.

Since 1900, the bureau said, the proportion of persons over 65 has doubled in this country from 4 to 8 per cent, with a steady increase in the proportion of women. Another report released today by the Public Affairs Institute substantiates the growing number of aged persons in the nation. It deals with the job problem.

Within the next 15 years, the institute said, the United States will witness a struggle for jobs between young and old workers which it will be unprepared to handle, unless it undertakes an immediate, careful study of the problem. The population bureau said that "in terms of voting power, ownership of land and corporate equities," the aging females are gaining control.

It also urged industry to re-examine its attitudes toward older workers.

First Baptist Amoma Class Meets at Church

On Thursday evening, May 5, the Amoma Sunday school class of the First Baptist church met in the lower rooms of the church for the regular social hour.

The meeting opened by the group singing the theme song "Our Best" accompanied at the piano by Ethel Rann. Prayer was offered by Ella Chase.

The members and their guests assembled around a long table laden with sandwiches, salads, hot coffee and a beautiful birthday cake decorated with pink roses and the word "Mother."

Each member introduced her guest and expressed her appreciation in having them present. They were presented as follows: Mesdames Ethel Rann and mother, Eva Nolen, Edith Henderson and mother, Nora Thompson, Sylvia Adams and friend, Effie Barnett, Nola Monroe and mother, Ella Spears, Blanche Whitney and friend Addie Miller, also Mrs. Whitney's granddaughter, Mrs. Julene Whitney, Gladie Miller and granddaughter, Miss Linda Hitchcock, Jane Pankey and daughter-in-law, Gladys Pankey, Ella Chase and niece, Hazel King, Mamie Holmes, Carrye Hart, Flora Allen and Miss Addie Overstake.

Birthday gifts were presented to one member, Miss Addie Overstake, and two guests, Mrs. Effie Barnett and Mrs. Nora Thompson. Mrs. Thompson observed her 96th birthday on April 22.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Sylvia Adams who read Matthew 9.

Miss Lynda Hitchcock sang "Memories of Mother" accompanied by Mrs. Gladie Miller at the piano. Two readings, one a tribute to mothers, were given by Ethel Rann.

Short talks were made by each guest and by several members. Mrs. Thompson, who is the oldest living member of the Carrier Mills Baptist church, told of the first Sunday school and church to be organized in Carrier Mills and her work in the church and Sunday school for over 50 years. This meeting being in honor of Mothers Day, several gave brief speeches on what an inspiration their mothers had been in their lives.

Mrs. Carrye Hart, teacher of the class, dismissed the meeting.

Settle Electricity Rate Case at Murphysboro

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Central Illinois Public Service Co. and Illinois Electric & Gas Co. of Murphysboro today settled their four-year rate case which had gone to the Illinois Supreme Court.

CIPS agreed at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing to refund overcharges for May 1, 1953, to March 31, 1955. During this period CIPS put a new rate schedule into effect despite an ICC denial of the new rates.

The two companies now will continue the rates of the 50-year contract for the sale of CIPS electricity to Illinois Electric & Gas.

The contract was signed in 1928.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.
Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me, I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

MAGNIFICENT 250 HORSEPOWER PACKARD PATRICIAN

the New PACKARD with Torsion-Level Ride

A truly distinctive fine car — the new Packard.
Distinctive in having exclusive Torsion-Level suspension... providing a ride so smooth, so level, so comfortable on any road it has created a higher concept of motoring pleasure! Distinctive in its quiet magnificence, with color harmonies both refreshing and sophisticated interiors designed for your personal luxury.
Torsion-Level Ride — Packard's newest achievement in creative engineering leadership — eliminates conventional coil and leaf springs. In other cars, twisting forces due to wheel shock are transmitted to the frame with resulting pitch and bounce of passengers and wracking of car body and frame. With the new Packard these same twisting forces are transmitted along the new torsion bar system and absorbed before they can reach frame or passengers.

Distinctive, too, are Packard's new "free-breathing" V-8 engine, developing up to 275 horsepower... and the agile automatic response of Packard's two-in-one Twin Ultramatic Transmission.

Here, in all its distinction, is a fine new car with a fine old name.

Gov. Stratton Pressured for Start On 4-Year Chicago Branch of U. of I.

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Increasing pressure was being put on state legislators and Gov. William G. Stratton today for a start on the long-delayed four-year University of Illinois branch at Chicago.

Supporters of the proposal to allocate four million dollars to acquire land for a permanent and much enlarged Chicago branch are in a hurry.

The Legislature must act quickly, they argue, if a start is to be made in time to meet greatly increased college enrollments now in prospect.

But Champaign area legislators, and others who guard the welfare of the U. of I., are taking a stand against an immediate start on the project while the state is pinched for money for existing institutions.

Supporters of other Illinois public higher education institutions, such as Southern Illinois University and the teachers colleges, are also lukewarm or antagonistic to the Chicago project. But some downstate legislators owe favors to the Chicagoans for past votes in favor of their college projects.

Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh, a vigorous opponent of the proposal, has conceded the Illinois House "probably will pass" a bill appropriating the money for the four-year school. But Rep. Ora D. Dillavou (R-Champaign), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said he will fight the Chicago branch bill when it reaches his committee.

Demand for the Chicago U. of I. branch is one of many pleas for state money for the next two years. Stratton has agreed to a one-year 1-cent increase in the sales tax to provide more money for schools and welfare.

"Stratton is going to have enough trouble balancing the budget without taking on this thing, is the view of Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph), State Budgetary Commission chairman.

Peters was commenting on a Chicago delegation's report that Stratton is "kindly disposed" toward the appropriation bill "if the funds are available."

The Chicago U. of I. bill is sponsored by 25 Democrats and 21 Republicans, led by Rep. Paul Randolph, Chicago Republican who headed a two-year commission investigating the project.

The building of a big four-year branch at Chicago will involve multi-million dollar appropriations for many years. Ultimate cost is expected to be about 100 million dollars.

Local Couple Wins Pair Championship In Bridge Tournament

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dale Wilson of Harrisburg took championship honors in the Little Egypt Pair game last week end at the fourth annual Little Egypt bridge tournament.

Players representing three states participated in this event held at the Elks club in Herrin. Runners-up in this session were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Skaggs.

The Women's Pair event was won by Mrs. Skaggs and Mrs. W. Joe Hill of Benton. At the height of the tournament 54 pairs were in competition.

The open pairs event was won by Mrs. Wallace Owen and Mrs. Everett Stocks of Herrin, in a tie with Mrs. R. K. Lucas and George De Runtz of St. Louis, Mo.

The Little Egypt Bridge tournament was sponsored by the Herrin Elks Duplicate Bridge club which meets each Friday evening.

Senate Approves U.I. Appropriations

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois Senate today passed and sent to the House bills for the biennial appropriations to the University of Illinois.

The Senate passed the $82,807,600 of U. of I. operating budget, the $12,425,000 building or capital improvements budget and the $1,500,000 in funds for university staff merit salary increases.

Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph) said the 12-million-dollar building budget included some 5-million dollars in reappropriations of funds previously approved by the Legislature.

Judge Denies New Trial for Dr. Sheppard

CLEVELAND (UP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard today pinned his hopes for freedom on the decision of a three judge court of appeals that will rule this month on his plea for a new trial on grounds of judicial error.

Sheppard lost his next to last chance for a new trial Monday when Judge Edward Blythin denied him a new trial on grounds of fresh evidence.

Blythin said the alleged new evidence was in the realm of theory and provided no basis for retrial.

It was Blythin who sentenced Sheppard, a Bay Village osteopath, to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife Marilyn, 31.

Sheppard was convicted last Dec. 21 of second degree murder. He has been confined in the Cuyahoga County Jail. Under Ohio law he will be eligible for parole in 10 years after he officially begins serving sentence in the Ohio State Penitentiary in Columbus.

The Cuyahoga County Appellate Court will consider the osteopath's appeal May 23 on the ground of judicial error.

If that appeal is denied it is presumed Sheppard will be transferred to Columbus to begin serving his sentence.

In California, criminologist Dr. Paul L. Kirk said he had expected denial, but was disappointed and believed the jurist didn't "know what the situation is there." He said he was "not very happy" with the attitudes of the police investigators and prosecutors who brought about the conviction. He called the original trial "a miscarriage of justice" and the denial of retrial "simply a face saving maneuver." He said he believed Dr. Sheppard would be acquitted in another trial.

Highway Speed Limit Bill Passed By House, 42-7

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois Senate by a 42-7 vote today passed a bill for highway speed limits of 65 miles per hour in daylight and 55 mph at night.

The bill is a "prima facie" measure, permitting drivers to go faster than the top limits if they can prove conditions justified the higher speed.

The measure also would permit the State Department of Public Works to post highway speeds, allow county boards to fix county road speeds up to 70 miles per hour on a prima facie basis and allow municipal authorities to post limits up to 45 mph.

Experiments at the South Dakota State College agriculture experiment station show vegetables will produce better and earlier yields if protected from wind.

Howell Admits Wrong In Turnpike Solicitations

opinion" because "I don't have time to become an expert in all these fields."

"You had time to call up U. S. Steel and sell them a membership in the National Turnpike Assn., Sprague said, referring to Howell's testimony that he personally solicited one membership in the association.

The Membership Plan

Howell said he conceived the idea of forming the association in the winter of 1953-54 and it was incorporated with himself as president.

He said he wanted an organization composed of both state and private turnpike members to make "reports on traffic, engineering and financial problems" in the field that were unavailable elsewhere.

He said the size of the membership fees was left up to Washington publicity man Royce Powell. He said he never saw the solicitations until they were distributed at a meeting in Chicago early in 1954. But he admitted an announcement at that meeting that "those interested" could stay and join the association "broke up the meeting."

A week later, Howell said, charges were made against the group at a Miami toll authorities meeting and the association stopped taking memberships. He said five memberships from private firms were taken, including the $1,250 U. S. Steel check which was never cashed. Of the $4,900 collected, only about $400 was left, he said.

Promises "Full Audit"

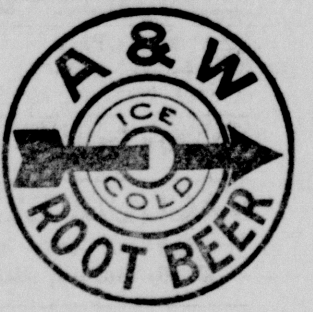

Howell promised the investigators a "full audit" of the association in 10 days together with a list of firms which were asked to join.

He said Powell spent the money and maintained Washington offices for the organization.

DEATH OF A LEGEND
 By WILL HENRY

THE STORY: Even Pinkerton operatives seem unable to stop Jesse James and his band of outlaws. The fact that he is being hounded by detectives seems to make Jesse more vicious.

DECEMBER 7, 1869, was as miserable as a wet, blowing snow could make it. The clay roads of Daviess County were standing rut-deep in frozen slush. Along the central thoroughfare of the river town of Gallatin, the hoofchurn of the mud was banked from storefront to storefront.

Inside the Daviess County Savings Bank, John W. Sheets, one-time captain of Union cavalry, current cashier and teller-of-all-trades, shivered and poked up the woodstove.

As he did, two heavily over-coated strangers entered, one of them presenting a $100 bank note and requesting change. Ex-Captain Sheets began to count out the bills. Shortly, he was aware the two strangers had produced four revolvers and a Missouri wheatsack.

"We'd admire as little fuss as possible, if you don't mind," the big man cursed softly moved on around the counter to help himself. He cleaned the cash drawer, came back around the counter. "Let's get out of here, Ding," he said quietly to his companion. "I don't cotton to the smell of this one."

"Wait a minute," rasped Jesse. He stared at Sheets. "Isn't he the bluebelly that downed Bill Anderson at Missouri City?"

"How should I know?" asked Cole nervously. "I was in Baton Rouge."

Outside the bank, the sudden roar of a fanned pistol put its barking period to his hesitation. "That's Frank's 44," he scowled. "Let's get out of here." His advice was compounded by Frank's shout from without.

"Hurry it up in there, boys! They'll be onto us!"

"I'm gone!" With the observation Cole ran for the door.

Jesse watched him go, moved into the counter, leaned across it, both pistols leveled on Sheets.

"You ever with the Union cavalry, he hissed.

"Yes, I was—" began the cashier.

"Name of S. P. Cox, lieutenant with Jennison's Fifteenth?"

"No, John, Sheets, captain, Fourth Iowa."

"You're a liar!"

The left-hand pistol moved up and across the counter. The blast of the black powder filled the tiny room. The burst of its smoke and the stab of its orange flame obscured Sheet's face. The ball passed through his right eye, blew out the back of his skull, smashed the window behind him. Jesse turned and ran for the door.

Outside, a score of citizens had found guns.

Cole came out first. He vaulted into his saddle, the nearly empty sack impeding him not in the least. Jesse was no more than 30 seconds behind him. But as he legged up on his rearing black, Frank lost the reins. He saw Jesse clutch for the saddlehorn as he spun his own mount after Cole's. The latter, looking back as Frank galloped up, slid his horse to a mud-showering halt.

Fifty feet from the bank Jesse's black had thrown him, hanging his left foot in the on-side stirrup. He was dragging him now in a lunging, crazy run. As Frank and Cole watched, Jesse fought his foot free of the stirrup, fell under the horse, was struck by one of the driving rear hooves, struggled half-way up, collapsed back into the mud.

Cole to the left, Frank to the right, they drove their horses down upon the huddled body, forcing over the heads of the advancing townspeople. Cole stood in stirrups, his bull's voice bellowing over the gunfire. "Get up, Dingus! Get up!"

The half-conscious Jesse responded, staggering to his feet as the two horsemen thundered up. They took him, one on each side, at a dead gallop, swinging his slack body up between their careening mounts.

Frank released his grip and Cole raised Jesse bodily, to jam him astride Frank's horse behind the saddle.

A mile southwest of Gallatin the fleeing outlaws encountered a farmer, Daniel Smoot, aboard a fine saddlehorse. Cole shoved a gun un-

Tongay Gives Up Legal Fight to Avoid Sentence

MIAMI — Russell Tongay today gave up his legal fight to avoid serving a sentence of 10 years at hard labor for the death of his "aquat" daughter Kathy from a driving injury.

The Florida Supreme Court Monday night refused to grant the burly ex-Coast Guardsman a rehearing on his manslaughter conviction and his attorney, Louis Jepeway, said no further appeal was planned.

Jepeway said Tongay was "ready and available" to enter prison but some five days will probably be required for the court decision to travel through channels to local court officials, who must issue commitment orders.

Tongay was sentenced in 1951 following the death of the 5-year-old girl, co-star with her 8-year-old brother Budda in Tongay's famous "aquat" team.

The Colorado Extension Service recommends this method for cutting down on nylon stocking snags. Dampen your hands before putting on each stocking. The moisture will smooth away any rough cuticle likely to catch on the delicate threads.

Plan A-Weapon For Defense Against Subs

WASHINGTON — The United States is planning a new breed of atomic weapons, designed for defense against Russia's huge submarine fleet in event of a war.

Announcement of an early underwater test explosion off the West Coast lifted the curtain slightly on the new venture.

The Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission said in a joint announcement Monday that a small nuclear device will be set off under water within a few days "in the eastern Pacific ocean several hundred miles from the closest land area."

Purpose of Explosion
 The purpose of America's second underwater atomic explosion—the first was at Bikini in July, 1946—is to gain information "essential for developing tactics for defense against submarine attack."

The announcement reflected both the growing variety of American nuclear weapons and increasing concern over the fleet of long range submarines Russia has in operation and under construction.

There was no intimation from any government quarter as to the form the new weapons might take—guided missiles, torpedoes, depth charges, mines, bombs. The Navy, however, is known to be developing a guided missile to be fired from the air against underwater targets. It possibly could be equipped in time with a nuclear warhead.

Rule Suspect Sane For Murder Trial

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Two physicians reported to a judge Monday that Leslie Irvin, 31, who confessed six slayings in Indiana and Kentucky, is sane enough to be tried.

Irvin was indicted by a Vanderburgh county grand jury in the gun deaths of Mrs. Mary Holland, a liquor store clerk, and Wesley Kerr, a filling station attendant, in Evansville last December.

Dr. H. M. Kaufman and Dr. Harold Nisenbaum reported to Circuit Judge Ollie C. Reeves they examined Irvin and found him "sane enough to stand trial."

Irvin also confessed killing three members of the Goebel Duncan family in Henderson County, Ky., and Mrs. Wilhelmina Sailer, in Posey County, Ind., in April.

Cardinals' Billy Virdon, Indians' Herb Score Lead Rookies in Major Leagues

By United Press

Billy Virdon of the Cardinals and Herb Score of the Indians led a long parade of rookies today who apparently have made the big jump successfully from the minors to the majors.

The National league seems to be sprouting the better hitters among the rookie crop, according to a survey made during Monday's off-day in the majors, while the American league looks as if it has come up with the finer young pitchers.

Virdon, the bespectacled Cardinal center fielder whose success made possible Stan Musial's return to first base, leads all the rookies with a .424 batting average. Two other fledglings who are getting in some good licks at the plate are the Freese brothers, Gene and George, of the Pirates. Gene is hitting .345 while his older brother is hitting .305.

First baseman Dale Long and outfielder Bob Clemente another pair of Pirate rookies, boast identical .305 marks, while two other rookie outfielders who were involved in a trade for each other two weeks ago, Glen Gorbous of the Phillies and Stan Palys of the Redlegs, aren't far from the charmed .300 circle. Gorbous is batting .292 and Palys .283, according to figures compiled by the Elias Baseball Bureau.

Score Makes Big Splash

Score, of course, has made the biggest splash of all the American league rookies, particularly for striking out 16 Red Sox batters in a single game, May 1. The left-handed Cleveland fastballer has won three games and lost only one, pitched three complete games and taken the major league strikeout leadership with a total of 50.

Only a step or so behind Score is another rookie pitcher, Dick Donovan of the White Sox, who failed to make the big league grade in previous trials with the Braves and Tigers. Donovan has pitched two shutouts already and like Score, is the owner of a 3-1 record.

Rookie Frank Lary of Detroit has the ear-marks of success despite his 2-3 record. He has hurled four complete games and his last two losses were an 11-inning 3-2 setback against Boston and a 1-0 decision against the White Sox.

Of course, not all of the good young hitters are in the National league nor all the fine young pitchers in the American.

Outfielder Ernie Gravetz, the bespectacled 5-foot, 4-inch member of the Senators, is rapping the ball at a respectable .319 clip, and another rookie, catcher Hal Smith, is one of the few bright spots in the otherwise bleak Baltimore picture with a .313 average.

Right-hander Eddie Roebuck, up for his second chance with the Brooklyn Dodgers, appears to have taken away the number one relief job from Jim Hughes and already boasts two victories against no defeats.

Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals insists he has two fine rookie relievers in Bobby Tiefenauer and Herb Moford and both have come through with fine performances.

All told, the current season could turn out to be a banner year for a majority of the rookies in both the American and National leagues.

Clear nail polish applied to the bottoms and lower one-fourth inch around the sides of canisters will protect them from rust and prevent their scratching kitchen shelves.

Race track scuttles butt is that Nashua's boss, William Woodward, Jr., who rarely was seen at the track the years his father had so many famous horses, is now telling venerable Mr. Fitz how to train the nags. . . . This year's trek to Louisville, incidentally, was Woodward's baptism to the Kentucky Derby. . . . Lamented a Pittsburgh writer: "Covering the Pirates is just like following a hearse—you're traveling with the body." . . .

After Johnny Antonelli finished his 16-inning marathon stint against the Redlegs, Coach Frank Shellen, back of the Giants pooh-poohed any queries about arm strain: "He might need an extra day's rest." . . . Antonelli always claimed his progress was stunted with the Braves because he never got enough work. . . . and it wasn't until he got in the Army and pitched regularly every four days that he found himself. . . . The smooth southpaw was also one suitor who met his in-laws before he met his wife, the former Rosemarie Carbone—when the Carbone won a trip to spring training in 1949 and invited Johnny to visit them in Medford, Mass. . . . not even mentioning daughter. . . . The newest tennis glamour gal will be pretty Barbara Brait of North Hollywood, Calif., last year's national junior champ. . . .

Take it from us, the Baltimore Orioles will train in Arizona next year, with officials from the three other clubs that encamp there secretly sneaking off to the Grand Canyon State to line up a site. . . . said to be Scottsdale, where a ball park will be built. . . . We've never read a more ridiculous description of impeccable Bob Feller than "grizzled veteran" after he let down the Red Sox with one hit. . . . Wonder if the bettors whose money went down the drain when Boston Dogs finally lost one in the Swift Stakes knew that the Beantown horse had never even stepped on a track since being cut up in Maryland a couple of weeks previous. . . .

Burly Bob Cerv won't have to worry about his base hits dropping in for the Yankees if that Geiger counter he's been toting around the hills on visits back home to Gunnison, Colo., ever perks up over a uranium lode. . . . A tip-off on the athletic side of Nebraska may be Bob's revelation that in his four years as a Cornhusker basketball and baseball star, he never once was on an athletic scholarship. . . . He came there only to play basketball because until he went to college he'd never held a baseball bat in his hands—softball was the limit. . . .

The reason Col. Earl Blaik in desperation switched All-American Don Hollender to quarterback during Army's spring drills (he'll also open there in the fall) was the unexpected absence of his 1954 star linebacker signal-caller . . . who flunked out of the Academy. . . .

President Ted Mann of the Class B. Carolina League grows there isn't a more stable minor league circuit—the longest possible jump for any club from city to city is 100 miles. . . . Business is going to the dogs—Dave Funk's Phoenix greyhound track had a mutual handle of $147,000 closing night. . . . It comes out now how College of the Pacific's opponents have such a tough time handling tackle John Nisby—he's a judo expert, yet. . . .

Now that they've got Marciano-Cockell and a strong claim on Bobo Olson, the Northern California Boxing Writers are banding . . . to "recognize the Bay Area's growing importance in the world fight picture" . . .

Between you'n me, Al Weill will keep ducking Archie Moore for his boy Rocky not because they're afraid of Marciano's losing . . . but the slashing he'd get in the process of winning. . . .

Eddie Stanky IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR SPALTY

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (U-P)—Eddie Stanky is squarely on the spot today and even the baseball statistics are loaded against the little skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals.

This is the season in which Stanky must produce or face the prospect of becoming an ex-manager. And currently his Cardinals are buried in the second division, trailing even the Pittsburgh Pirates as surprising as they are.

But what makes it worse for the little man are those figures, condemning on the surface, in the batting averages.

If you look over the major league batting figures you will find four of the Cardinals among the top eight hitters in the National league. Bill Virdon is leading with .424. Rip Repulski is third with .367. Wally Moon is seventh with .337 and Red Schoendienst is eighth with .329. And on the team, too, is a man named Stan Musial.

How then, you may wonder, can the Cardinals be swamped in sixth place?

Answer is Pitching

The answer is pitching—or what passes for pitching.

To date the Cardinal throwers have been donating an average of 10 hits per game. Only four times have they given what may be described as creditable performances, and three of those they won. One was a four-hitter and the other three were five-hitters.

But most of the time they serve merely as batting practice tossers for the opposition. In five games they have allowed 10 hits, and games are recorded in which they have allowed 14, 16 and even 18 hits.

The rap against Stanky is that he blows his top after particularly inept performances. A fierce competitor when he was playing, he always has found it difficult to accept defeat and never has been able to tolerate disgrace on the field.

Once when he was playing with the Braves, Eddie steamed back to the bench after a pop-up and gave the water bucket a disgusted boot which sent its contents all over nearby players. Billy Southworth, then managing the Braves, called a clubhouse meeting and in a speech aimed at Stanky suggested less demonstrative reactions, urging his players to "laugh off" the bad breaks because they would even up.

A Bitter Gag
The next time he popped up, Stanky went back to the bench and laughed long and raucously. To him it was a bitter gag and he had to let them all know how ridiculous he thought the suggestion.

He was always a battler, as a player and now as a manager. And while the surface figures would tend to indicate that he may be a failure on the bench, those pitching figures bare it as a lie. It's true that he doesn't always run his team by the "book." But Stanky's reaction may be termed typical.

"Who the hell wrote the book?" he demands truculently.

To date the Cardinals have been one of the year's big league disappointments. On paper alone they figured to be in the thick of the race, and the big guns are roaring.

The hitters are getting a complete five-man "A" game. The difficulty is that the pitchers are

The district track and field meet is scheduled for Friday afternoon and night at SIU stadium and Murphysboro will be the overwhelming favorite to cop the title.

The Red Devils from Murphysboro showed power and balance by running away from the field in the Southwestern Egyptian conference meet last Friday, scoring 80 5-6 points. Pinckneyville in second spot was away back with 64 points. Murphysboro took first in every running event, except the two hurdle races and also took top honors in the shot put and broad jump.

Al Adams' Eldorado Eagles also are given an outside chance to take district honors and so far this season the Eagles have shown considerable strength, finishing high in all the big meets and winning in all dual meets except one—dropping a decision to Carmi.

Eldorado can count on points from Lovellette in the shot and discus and Willis in the mile. Wood also is considered a threat in the mile and Dodd probably will pick up some points in the dashes.

Allison of Murphysboro has recorded the fastest 220 and third best 100 in addition to the best broad jump in Egypt this year.

Centralia, another strong track and field team, will be entered in another district—at least has been in the past—so is not considered in figuring the outcome of the SIU district.

Phil Coleman, the best distance runner ever to be developed in southern Illinois, will return to Southern Illinois University this evening to run an exhibition mile against time. Coleman has been running in the big time this winter, finishing second to Wes Santee in a one mile run recently and has been near first place in all his races. He holds the SIU mile record at 4:15.3. His exhibition mile run will be an added sidelight to a dual meet featuring SIU and Cape Girardeau. The meet is to start at 7 p. m. today.

Bill Hazel of Harrisburg won the feature event as stock car racing got underway at Carbondale last Friday. Hazel took honors in the feature, the handicap and first heat.
